The lesson taught by the Chicago fire a year ago, and enforced by the Boston fire, is one that every city ought to take to heart. It is that under certain favorable conditions any compactly built city is liable to destruction by fire. Given, a strong gale and a fire well started on the windward side of closely built squares, and it is almost beyond knumsn agent work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing that the political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing that the political beggars and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing that the political beggars and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing that the political beggars and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars, and the political beggars and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the political beggars and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing the fire, is one that every city ought to take and it is almost beyond human agen-cy to stop the conflagration that must cy to stop the conflagration that must that not the most credulous of place-hunters will suspect us of having any credit with the appointing powers. That is one tatest, as they are the most disastrous, illustrations of this truth.

The thing to do is of course to provide tion may save a city by its promptitude in extinguishing fires before they have tion in this respect as they ought to have or even such as they pay for? We have no wish to say a word that would be unjust to the present Fire Department, nor to say anything of it save for the single purpose of making it better and contributing to the security of the people of this city. But this is a good time to inquire—and the inquiry is a proper one—whether the city has adequate protection in its Fire Department, and if not whether something ought not to be done about it. City readers can easily recall their experience with the fires that have occurred here within the past two or three years. Can they recall any instance where the delay in getting water on the fire was not so great that with a fierce gale half a block ould have burned before the first drop of water was thrown? By great good for-tune no fire has occurred in this city for years in a compact locality, except when the air was calm. We cannot always cal-culate on this. Some of these days or lights a fire will get out to a time of the control of the con water was thrown? By great good fornights a fire will get out in a time of high winds, such as blow here a great deal in the Fall, Winter and Spring seasons.

Then, with half or three-quarters of an hour's delay before water was thrown, the control of the seasons. The control of the seasons of the control of the seasons of the control of the seasons. The chest was burned to a hour's delay before water was thrown, the control of the seasons of fire would have its way and the destruction would be limited only by the amount of material that lay in its path. These are serious facts, and the citizens of Wheeling ought to take them into considly, as all our people know, the water supply is barely sufficient to carry the city ply is barely sufficient to carry the city awand his sufferings are described as along from day to day for ordinary pure The distribution of water is steadily extending in the southern and eastern parts of the city and on the Island. It is absolutely certain either that this extension must cease or the source of saked them to be a considered and the constant of the city and told his friends that he must die, and saked them to be a constant of the c repeatedly assured by the Superintendent of the Water Works, that the capacity of the works at their best is barely equal to the task, by constant running, of keeping up this present supply, and they are now so old and rickety that it is a work of continual difficulty to keep them in good working order. We are assured by gentlemen who have no interest whatever in the matter save that which every citizen feels in having plenty of water for domestic and manufacturing purposes, and for protection, that the present Water Works are and long have been in such a condition as to be liable to let down at any time. Should the machinery get out any time. Should the machinery get out of order, even a few hours delay would leave the city without water. The ac tual and possible consequences of such a state of things all well understand.

The necessity for an immediate and exensive addition to the Water Works. rather the erection of new works, has been understood and discussed by the city authorities for a year or more. It will be an expensive work of necessity. It will require two or three hundred thousand dollars, and that is a good deal of money to raise in the present overtaxed condition of this city. Yet the question is whether the people of the city can not better afford to build these Works than to incur the perils that lie in wait for us if they are not built. It a big fire should burn up a million or two of property one of these nights, then even a member of the city Council would be able to understand that this long trifling with the most serious want of the city was a false economy. Fire is the inexorable and most terrible enemy of cities. External vigilance is the price of even a reasonable exemption from its ravages. There can hardly be a city in the country to-day of equal magnitude and wealth so exposed to the dangers of fire as Wheeling, with its present untrained Fire Department and the present inadequate means of water supply. It is high time our people recognized this state of affairs and sought for a practical and speedy remedy.

In the multiplicity of our dispatche yesterday morning and the haste of getting them into type, those stating the burned district in Boston at three square miles and the losses at from $300,000,000 to $250,000,000 were accidentally omitted.

The thing to do is of course to provide all reasonable precautions against such a contingency. An efficient fire organizating of the Massachusetts Historical Society, Dr. A. P. Peabody, of Harvard Col lege, exhibited the cane with which Preston Brooks assaulted Charles Sumper got dangerous headway. In this, as in the treatment of disease, prevention is infinitely better than cure. We desire to suggest to the citizens of Wheeling the inquiry whether they have such protec-tion in this respect as they ought to have in token of which the Doctor has now in his possession several of the pieces, which were picked up by a Senate sub official. Instead of being "ebony solid and heavy." the cane was a light, gutta percha affar, and hollow at that. The Massachusetts Historical Society will notice accordingly.
